

Future Learning Spaces

The shape of things to come... Re-imagining the Learning Experience

10.00am - 4.30pm Thursday June 11th 2015
Saint-Gobain Innovation Centre, 95 Portland Street, London W1W 7NY

In the first of our series of forums for this year we wish to focus on International and UK trends that are demonstrating through research and evidence-based practice the need to rethink approaches to preparing young people for 21st century learning.

We are bringing together the shared practical experience of teachers, researchers, design professionals and architects to share the new and developing perspectives and their implications for the design and delivery of new spaces to improve learning outcomes.

Contributors and delegates from national and international partners will present their views alongside evidence-based case studies to support, encourage, enable and equip change.

Collectively we can be a catalyst for change.
